

Recent Facebook Conversation Inside Aspire

Hi Danny (and Masterclass). I'm spreading the word of my search to my network, plus, beginning to apply various places. I think I'm going to need help keeping track of networking, job applications, notes sent, etc. Do you recommend any apps, websites (like JibberJobber), etc.?

7 Comments Seen by 7

Like

Comment

Danny Rubin Hmm you could use Evernote or good old Excel. If other people have suggestions, chime in

Like · Reply ·

I'm doing a beta test on JibberJobber. Seems multi-functional, but also might be overkill.

Like · Reply ·

1

Danny Rubin As long as you can keep track of everything somehow, you'll be in good shape

Like · Reply ·

1

Write a reply...

I'm a fan of creating a binder One Note - a microsoft app that's free on computer and phone. In your job search binder, you can then create sections for the various things you're tracking and it's easier to access on the go than an excel workbook + mak...
See More

Like · Reply ·

1

Great tip, Laura. Thanks. I'll check it out.

Like · Reply ·

1

also has built 'to-do' check boxes - and if you're more a stickler to them than me, you can filter a search by all your unchecked to-do boxes and have it create one list in one place from any separate lists you've made. I don't remember to check things off often enough for that to be useful for me... but I like that it exists 😊

Like · Reply ·

1

Danny Rubin Thanks for the great tip, Laura!

Like · Reply ·

Names and dates removed for privacy.